Introduction

A Grade II listed barn conversion on the edge of the popular village of Luston combining character with contemporary living. The accommodation consists of the following: entrance hall, kitchen/diner, sitting room, two double bedrooms and bathroom.

Property Description

Entry begins into an entrance hall with double glazed doors and two staircases, one being to the first floor sitting room and bedroom accommodation and a second leading down to a kitchen and dining room. There is room here for a decorative bench to remove muddy footwear after returning from a walk across the fields and space for the hanging of coats and hats. The charm of this barn conversion is clear from this very early introduction with a scattering of exposed beams, tall ceiling and feature alcoves/shelving. The staircase to the right leads to a first floor sitting room. The charm continues here with a wall of exposed red brick, tongue and groove paneling, some beams left exposed and a recessed feature shelf with exposed red brick and lighting. Below the sitting room and accessed from the entrance hall by stairs on the left is an attractive kitchen/diner with rear aspect. There is a modern range of wall and floor units with oak worktops that blend well with the tasteful country vibe of this welcoming home. The kitchen is well equipped with an electric oven and hob top, housing for a fridge, freezer and washing machine and room for a table and chairs plus dresser furniture. The alcove with tongue and groove finish, wooden floor and internal glass feature make this room a really inviting space for rustling up meals at any time of the day.

On the floor above the sitting room is the bedroom floor with a reading nook landing, two bedrooms and a bathroom. The landing is lit by a velux window and thus a pleasant area for reading a book or two. The stair well is lit by intermittent lights above the tread wells showing lovely attention to detail. Bedroom one is also lit by a velux window and sits within the eaves of the property like all rooms on this floor. It is a double bedroom with room for a selection of bedroom furniture. Bedroom two is also a double, lit by a velux rooflight and has an alcove for hanging storage. The bathroom has a modern and attractively styled suite with bath and shower over, hand basin with vanity housing, WC and chrome towel rail.

Garden & Parking

The garden is to the front of the property and has pathways of decorative chippings demarcating areas for a bistro table set and plant pots (over-spilling with cottage planting to add colour and interest). Just before the garden is parking for two vehicles allowing easy and flat access to the main entrance.
