The house bathroom is fitted with Rocca chinaware and features a bath and separate shower cubicle and is tiled floor to ceiling. Further property specification includes, carpets to the lounge and bedrooms, veneered oak and glazed internal doors, gas combi boiler with zoned underfloor heating, white UPVC windows, electric vehicle charging point, roof mounted 2.5KW solar panel, external wall fitted lights and the property is full alarmed. There is even an outside tap for convenience, these are future proofed homes.

The area

Garndiffaith village in Torfaen, south east Wales is a small rural area between Talywain and Varteg, virtually equidistant between Pontypool and the UNESCO World Heritage site, Blaenafon. Garndiffaith Primary School was opened in 1995 and formed from the merging of Varteg and Garndiffaith primary schools. Local amenities include a homewares store, a grocery and a Co- Op convenience store. Six Bells Railway Station closed in 1980 and the railway line has since become part of National Cycle Route 46. The largely stone built and Grade II Listed Garndiffaith Viaduct carried the former Brynmawr and Blaenafon Railway over the valley of the Afon Frwd at the lower end of the village. Garndiffaith Rugby Football Club has been long established and is a feeder club for Newport Gwent Dragons. Blaenafon has produced a number of Welsh International and British Lions Rugby Union players. Blaenafon was inscribed as a UNESCO World Heritage site in 2000 in recognition of the fact that during the 19th century the area was the most important iron, coal and steel producer in the world and drove the industrial revolution.
