DESCRIPTION

Some homes offer space. Others offer potential. This impressive four-bedroom residence on Firs Drive offers both, with flexible accommodation, generous outside space and exciting possibilities for those looking to create something truly special.

Behind its characterful exterior lies a home designed to adapt. Three reception rooms provide exceptional versatility, whether you're dreaming of formal entertaining, relaxed family living, a dedicated home office or a playroom. The existing layout offers plenty of scope to reconfigure, creating a spectacular open-plan kitchen, dining and family space that embraces modern living.

Upstairs, four bedrooms provide comfortable family accommodation, while the substantial roof space presents another exciting opportunity. Subject to the necessary permissions and structural considerations, a loft conversion could introduce additional bedrooms, bathrooms or even a luxurious principal suite.

Outside, the established garden offers room to relax, entertain and enjoy. The garage presents further possibilities, from a home gym or studio to additional accommodation, subject to the necessary consents. There is also potential to extend the existing footprint or explore more ambitious development opportunities, subject to planning permission (STPP).

And the location? Equally appealing. Firs Drive is conveniently positioned for local amenities, with schools in the wider area including Cranford Primary School, Berkeley Academy, Cranford Community College and Heston Community School.

For commuters, Hounslow West Underground Station provides Piccadilly line connections towards Central London and Heathrow Airport, while the M4 and A4 offer excellent road links. Healthcare facilities include Heston Health Centre and West Middlesex University Hospital.

Whether you're seeking a spacious family home, multigenerational living or a property with genuine scope to transform, this is an opportunity to think beyond what's already there.
