Charfield Road, Wotton-Under-Edge

DESCRIPTION

Originally part of the Tortworth Estate and now approached via a private driveway, this magnificent Grade II listed home is set in grounds of Circa 10 acres. Situated in an elevated position with westerly views toward the River Severn and the Welsh Hills in the distance, this substantial detached character property is totally unique, retaining many period features that are enhanced by superb décor. In addition to the extensive living accommodation there are two self-contained units, an integral 2 bedroom apartment and a large detached stone building that consists of an additional 2 bedroom apartment, office and garden workshop providing the potential to generate an additional total income of approx £35,000 pa if desired. The main accommodation features

The grounds that include paddocks and stables are Circa 10 acres. The approach takes advantage of the former Tortworth Arboretum in that the grounds have a Parkland style with mature trees, shrubs and dotted with eclectic ornaments (not currently included within the sale price) which can be seen from the images. The gardens surrounding the property are made up of kitchen gardens and formal gardens with a variety of ornamental topiary. The undulating paddock to the front of the property enjoys stabling for 6 horses with a yard to the front. Furthermore, the paddock enjoys its own separate access so as not to hinder the main house. There is extensive garaging and an abundance of parking. As previously mentioned a noteworthy feature is the inclusion of 2 separate self-contained apartments within the grounds, which if not sub-let provide additional accommodation for staff, dependant relatives or older children. The vaults below the property have been extensively refurbished into a large 2-bedroom apartment with beautiful barrel, cross barrel and groin vaulted ceilings with all doors leading onto the kitchen garden. The vaults can be accessed via its own private entrance.
