A Blank Canvas With Proper Potential

Some homes are finished to perfection. Others give you the opportunity to create something far more personal – and this three-bedroom mid-terrace house firmly belongs in the latter camp.

Requiring complete modernisation throughout, the property offers an exciting opportunity for buyers looking for a genuine project rather than somebody else's choice of kitchen, flooring and colour scheme.

The existing ground-floor accommodation provides a traditional layout with plenty of scope for reconfiguration. The real opportunity, however, lies towards the rear. With a large garden, there is excellent potential to extend and create a substantial open-plan kitchen/dining/family space, subject of course to the necessary planning permissions.

- Three Bedroom Terraced House
