Guide Price £1,500,000 to £1,600,000 - New to the market is this well-proportioned four-bedroom period property situated within the sought after Telegraph Hill Conservation Area in New Cross.

The property offers approximately 2,145 sq ft of living space and boasts plenty of character. There is also an outbuilding providing around 120sq ft of room. This house retains all of its original period charm. The retention of fireplaces, the high ceilings, large windows and covings are blended very well with an eclectic mix of more modern features to provide a very desirable family home.

The lower floor offers a front reception room with bay windows looking out to the main road. The rest of the floor has been fully opened to give over 560sq ft of room containing a kitchen, island and dining table providing direct access to the garden which is well kept and measures approx. 120sqm as well as containing the outbuilding.

The ground floor comprises of a front reception room again looking to the road and two bedrooms one with ensuite bathroom and additionally a separate toilet.

The first floor is very well designed as it has two double bedrooms – one at the front looking at the road and one at the back overlooking the garden and also consists of two-family bathrooms in between which allows each bedroom to effectively have sole use of its own bathroom.

The property is owned by a family who bought it as a family home but have now moved abroad hence the reason for the sale. Here is what the family had to say:

The property enjoys an excellent location, within easy walking distance of tube, train and bus links, as well as several beautiful local parks. It also falls within the catchment area for highly regarded primary and secondary schools, and benefits from convenient access to a variety of shops, restaurants and pubs.

The ground floor, with its direct access to the garden, has been a wonderful living space for our young family. The kitchen is particularly special, with high-quality fittings and plenty of space for cooking, dining and spending time together. The three separate lounge areas provide great flexibility and work extremely well for a growing family, while the beautifully finished bathrooms add a real sense of comfort and style. The layout of the home offers both privacy and a warm, welcoming family atmosphere.

During our time here we have carried out a number of improvements, including installing a new boiler and electrical fuse board, landscaping the garden and adding a garden office. We have also installed two new bathrooms, fitted bespoke carpenter-made wardrobes, replaced the radiators and added shutters to the front windows.
