The Indoors -

Through the grand communal hallway, an arched, glazed, and tile-lined corridor leads you down the original staircase to your private entrance. Beyond the front door lies a dramatic reveal: a vast open plan living, dining, and kitchen area that also includes a mezzanine. To your immediate right, you're welcomed into a breath-taking double-height living and kitchen space. Here, windswept, cool mellow engineered oak planks stretch across the floors, while exposed brick and extra-tall Georgian skirting anchor the room in authenticity.

The kitchen, designed and installed in 2023 by Brookman's by Smallbone, is finished in Setting Plaster by Farrow & Ball. It features Caesarstone countertops with ogee edging, a built-in Smeg oven, an Elica downdraft induction hob, an integrated Samsung dishwasher, a large butler sink with Perrin & Rowe brass fittings, a full-size Belling wine fridge, a hidden Hisense washer-dryer, and elegant brass hardware. Under-lit open shelving completes the space with a touch of refined functionality.

The living area offers ample room for a generous sofa and entertainment setup, with custom-built shelving and exposed brick adding visual texture and character. Just beyond, a designated dining area sits beneath a cascade of natural light from high-set windows.

From the kitchen, stairs rise to a cleverly designed mezzanine that overlooks the open-plan area. This versatile space currently serves as a stylish second lounge but could also become a third bedroom, reading nook, home office, or wine retreat. The view alone makes this feature standout.

Returning to the hallway, a short flight of steps leads to the main bathroom, which includes a vintage-style freestanding bath, Artisan of Devises floor and metro wall tiles, a bold House of Hackney wallpaper, and Lefroy Brooks sanitaryware with antique nickel fittings.

Continue to the primary bedroom, a calm and stylish sanctuary, offering ample space for an emperor-sized bed and wardrobe. An exposed brick wall and elevated, light-catching windows provide an atmospheric backdrop. The ensuite bathroom features a bespoke marble-topped vanity unit with fluted doors, along with Lefroy Brooks nickel hardware, a checkerboard-tiled floor, and a fluted glass walk-in shower screen. Oak-treaded, graduated steps lead into the ensuite, adding a subtle architectural flourish.

The second bedroom mirrors the charm of the primary, with large built-in wardrobes, ample space for a king-sized bed, and warm exposed brick details for added character.

The Outdoors-

This home benefits from access to a secluded paved residents' courtyard, ideal for enjoying quiet afternoons or shared community moments. A WhatsApp and Facebook group among residents makes for a connected, friendly atmosphere, and the building's thick Edwardian brickwork ensures whisper-quiet interiors despite its bustling location.
