External area:

Externally, the property benefits from a garden with well established trees, including apple and plum trees in the rear courtyard, and a paved seating area, together with a pond and pastureland extending nearly 9 acres. The range of outbuildings comprise of the old dairy, traditional brick barns, timber building, the former milking parlor and a variety of store buildings along with a double garage with electric doors, as shown on the floorplan. This provides versatility for agricultural or domestic uses.

Subject to obtaining the necessary planning consents, the brick barns to either side of the farmhouse could offer scope for holiday cottages which had planning permission in the past, however this has now lapsed.
