ACCOMMODATION

Approached via a private gateway and a gravel driveway of approximately 200 metres, the house sits within mature grounds that include a wildlife pond, expansive lawned areas and a substantial connected ground-floor annexe.

Inside, the property is filled with natural light, with high ceilings, solid oak parquet flooring throughout the ground floor, and an abundance of windows and doors overlooking the grounds. The house offers a versatile range of reception and family spaces, including formal and informal living areas, dining space, an office and gym, all making the most of the setting and views.

The kitchen is arranged around bespoke solid oak cabinetry and a central island, with adjoining dining and family spaces creating an easy flow through the house.

The wider estate is a particularly rare feature in the centre of Hurley village. Despite its central village setting, The Retreat offers an uncommon degree of seclusion and is exceptional in the scale of land it provides in such a prime position.

Hurley is one of the Thames-side area's most sought-after villages, known for its historic character and riverside walks, with convenient access to Marlow, Henley-on-Thames and Maidenhead, from where the Elizabeth line provides fast connections into London, as well as good access to Heathrow Airport.
