ACCOMMODATION

Believed to date back to the 1500s, the cottage is rich in character, with exposed timber beams, leaded light windows, bespoke joinery, latch doors and a wealth of period detail throughout. Despite its modest footprint of approximately 316 sq ft (30 sq m), every inch has been thoughtfully refurbished and utilised to create a warm and inviting home full of personality.

Designed by the current owner, a custom-built timber front door is intricately decorated with a stained-glass window, and opens to the open-plan living space and kitchen. Fitted oak bench seating provides useful storage, with additional storage incorporated under the staircase. There is a bespoke handcrafted kitchen which has fitted cupboards, a sink unit and a black Everhot 60 range cooker, plumbing for a washing machine, space for an under-counter fridge-freezer and electric underfloor heating.

First floor

This versatile room is currently used as the double bedroom benefitting from a bespoke cantilever bed, which can be stowed away into the wall to create a secondary open living space, if required. There is a front aspect window, a vaulted ceiling with exposed timber beams, exposed timber flooring and some high-level storage.

An oak latch door opens into the shower room which has a white suite comprising a shower cubicle, wash-hand basin, a w.c. and a wall mounted heated towel rail.

Outside

The cottage enjoys a garden to the front, a wonderfully peaceful setting filled with colourful planting that feels a world away from the bustling town centre - despite being only a short stroll from Market Place and the River Thames.

Whether as a charming permanent home, an idyllic weekend retreat or an exceptional investment in one of Oxfordshire's most sought-after market towns, Wolsey's Cottage represents a rare chance to acquire a truly distinctive period property in an unrivalled central location.
